Dear Healthcare Practitioner:

I am writing to formally request your presence at the San Diego Academy of Regenerative Therapies (SDARTs) 4th Global Conference, July 14-16, 2023 in San Diego, California, USA.

This leading-edge conference is an excellent educational and training opportunity to learn from the pioneers about the latest clinical advancements in adipose regenerative therapies and specifically MicroFat and NanoFat. This is an in-person-only conference and will provide you with an opportunity to learn from our world-renowned faculty members in an intimate setting in both didactic sessions and a cadaver practicum.

Now more than ever, advances in regenerative therapies are taking the forefront in global patient care. Our international faculty members lead the way in exciting scientific research and expanding the scope of clinical applications that use the body's tissue to heal, rejuvenate, and repair.

The 2023 SDARTs Conference will feature three concurrent tracks curated to focus on the latest scientific research and clinical applications in:

- Office-Based Regenerative Aesthetics:
Hair, skin, face, breast, body, hands, intimate female rejuvenation, male enhancement, and scar revision.
- Plastic, Cosmetic, and Reconstructive Surgery:
MACS facelift, SMAS facelift, composite breast augmentation, breast reconstruction, and body sculpting.
- Regenerative Healing and Restoration:
Orthopedic and sports medicine, podiatric applications, urological procedures, and wound healing.

Thank you for considering this request. You can learn more about the SDARTs 4th Global Conference by visiting our conference page on the SDARTs website at <https://www.sdarts.com/conference>

Sincerely,

Marcille Pilkington
